RESUME

POSITION DESIRED

Associate pastor working with Junior High, Senior High and/or College-age young people.

CHRISTIAN EXPERIENCE

I was not raised in a Christian home but came to know Christ as my personal Saviour and Lord at the age of ten and was filled with the Holy Spirit shortly thereafter. Since then my entire immediate family has also come to know Christ. While counseling at camp at the age of fifteen I felt the Lord was calling me into fulltime ministry. This call has always been very strong in my heart and has been confirmed many times by comments from my pastors, family and other friends. Several circumstances have also confirmed this divine calling including the fact that the Lord made it possible for me to attend and be graduated from Northwest College with a B.A. in Pastoral Studies.

PERSONAL CAREER GOALS

I am sincerely desiring to minister in God's church in any capacity which He may direct. I strongly sense He is leading me to minister to youth. To make myself a more effective minister I am taking post-graduate courses which will lead to a M.A. in Bible and Theology. I hope to complete the M.A. program within five years. However, church ministry is my highest priority.

CHURCH GOALS

I strongly believe that a youth program can make the difference between a strong productive church and a weak unproductive church. Young people are the church of tomorrow, but more important, they are a vital part of the church today.

A strong youth program is made of strong Christian young people who understand God's purpose for their lives and know the great potential they have to serve Christ and influence their world with the Gospel. Because of their energy, enthusiasm, and freedom from responsibilities and commitments that often hinder adults, young people provide a great dynamic to a church's ministry if they are trained and allowed to exercise their individual ministry talents.

MINISTRY GOALS

I feel the Lord has called me to help Christian young people grow and mature in their Christian lives. As a youth pastor I realize that it is my responsibility to equip youth by teaching them biblical principles for living and setting an example of a fruitful Christian life. A solid youth program must include a balance of evangelism, missions, fellowship, teaching, and prayer support. It is my responsibility to assure that the young people are provided with opportunities to interact in each of these areas and to create an enthusiasm about them. Central to all of this is dependence upon God to build His church. My ultimate goal is to serve Him to my fullest capacity in the way that He directs.
