

AUTUMN SCENES

God's handiwork we see all around;
Brilliance of colors easily found.
He touches each leaf with gentle care;
Glorious Autumn fills the air.

Then snow-like frost blankets the grass;
Holding the sunrise, sparkling like glass.
Leaves gently fall to the cold, barren ground,
Gathering so softly, without a sound.

Bright color has vanished from each of the leaves;
Now they are scattered by Autumn's crisp breeze.
This season's brought joy to our eyes for we saw Scenes of rare beauty . . . God painted it all.

"Miracle at Philadelphia"

A major exhibit entitled "Miracle At Philadelphia" which celebrates the 200th anniversary of the Constitution of the United States opened in Independence National Historical Park September 17, to remain throughout the bicentennial year of 1987.

When I read with interest the above statement I pondered the fact that God still wants to perform miracles in Philadelphia.

The night the fire broke out in Highway, I was in the middle of our Bible study speaking about all the miracles in the Word of God. My faith was so exercised that afternoon as I studied.

And now, regardless of all the reverses, I still believe God wants to perform miracles. The greatest miracle I have ever seen or known is the miracle of lives turned from the darkness of sin into the transforming new life upon accepting Jesus as Saviour and Lord.

Today has been designated College Commitment Day in the Assemblies of God. One miracle I long to see is a great spiritual awakening among the college constituency of this city. Revivals are always perpetuated through youth who have their lives to surrender to the purposes of God.

When I drive through this city and see the teeming masses of students my heart cries for them to know the reality found in Christ. Students from dozens of countries have come to universities and colleges in the United States. They, along with our American young people, could, in the next 25 years occupy one half of all the world's top leadership positions in government, business and education. It is hard to imagine a more strategic group to evangelize.

This week some encouraging news came from Valley Forge Christian College of a team of students who want to come and consistently minister in the outreaches of Highway Tabernacle.

Pray the Lord of the harvest that He might send workers to us who desire above all else to see "miracles" in our city of transformed lives. The prayers of William Penn, the founder of this city, are still on deposit. Let's add our prayers, finances and whatever else God asks of us to see "miracles" in this city of Philadelphia.

TONIGHT IN THE 7:00 SERVICE we will view the film Fanny Crosby, a motion picture dramatizing the time-honored ministry of a blind woman whose hymns are sung by Christians world-wide. Crosby hymns include "Blessed Assurance", "Safe in the Arms of Jesus", "To God be the Glory", and "Praise Him". The film chronicles the blind woman's life from her early years as a teacher at the New York Institute for the Blind until, as an octogenarian, she had become one of the most honored women in American and church history. You will want to be present for this experience.
