

Refreshed by the blessing and presence of God in the chapel service, the boys are ready to start their daily schedule of studies and work.

The chapel building was constructed entirely by the boys from our Assemblies of God Industrial school.

It is no drudge for young men with the call of God on their lives to head for the administration building to begin a day of studying the Word of God.

There is within the hearts of the students a desire to be their best for the Master, and they know they need God's word, and that it always has the chief place in classes.
