

Foreign Missionary Work.

"The field is the world."—MATT. 13: 38.

Believing that a full-rounded Gospel work must ever include obedience to the Master's last great commission, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature," we have undertaken the support, through the Christian and Missionary Alliance Board, of a missionary in South China. Miss Alice L. Landis went forth over a year ago to represent the work on the foreign field, and has already mastered the language sufficiently to speak in the native tongue. It is hoped others will follow as the Lord shall open the way.

Let all our friends, by their contributions, have a share in this blessed service. Thus, by prayer, sacrifice and direct correspondence, we are kept in touch with the foreign work.

The Young People.

"Praise the Lord . . . both young men and maidens."—PS. 148: 7, 12.

A large and growing band of young people, enthusiastic in the Lord's service, is doing effective work in various lines, including an interesting week-night service, cottage prayer meetings, open-air services, visitation and relief of the poor, etc. They are organized under the title of the "Willing Workers."

The oft-repeated question, how to hold the interest of the young people, appears to have been solved (without the aid of a single church entertainment or worldly amusement of any kind), by getting them thoroughly converted and then keeping them busily engaged in the Master's service.

Other Doors of Service.

"To every man his work."—MARK 13: 34.

Open-air meetings in front of the Tabernacle and elsewhere are a characteristic feature and part of the work. From the first they have been attended with divine blessing.

The Sunday late afternoon Gospel meetings at nearest Police Station are conducted by a committee appointed from our members.

Some have obtained permits to attend Sunday early morning services at Eastern Penitentiary. Others have visited inmates or attended services at Blockley Almshouse, and yet others have gone to the abodes of vice and shame to rescue the fallen.

The judicious and prayerful visitation of the sick is also a most precious ministry.

The giving of Gospel leaflets, texts, or portions of the Bible at the close of open-air meetings, or at other suitable times, is an instrumentality oft owned of God in winning precious souls to Him.

All new members are earnestly invited as the Lord may lead to engage in one or more of the departments of Christian service. (Luke 10: 2; Matt. 25: 34-40.)
